

Research Internship at CPD

The Centre for Policy Dialogue (CPD) will recruit a couple of Interns who are interested to pursue a research-oriented career in the development sector. CPD internship will provides an Intern with an excellent environment to interact closely within a globally reputed think-tank and to gain first-hand exposure to frontier developmental issues as well as critical development policy challenges facing the country, region and the world. CPD will involve the Interns in its ongoing research and outreach programmes, where they will be required to provide supervised research and communication inputs.

The ideal candidate will have a keen and demonstrated interest in issues related to macroeconomic policy, data concerns, global economic issues and sustainable development goals (SDGs). The internship also provides opportunities to participate in various in-house, national and international events organised by CPD on a regular basis. Interns, based on their demonstrated performance, are considered for a career at CPD.

Requirements: The candidate would need to have a Master's degree in Economics or Statistics from a reputed university. A minimum CGPA of 3.60 is required. Those awaiting Masters result may also apply. Drafting, computer and social skills are must. Skills related to use of statistical analysis tools (e.g. STATA, R) are highly desirable. Should be ready to work under pressure in delivering outputs.

Interns will be recruited for three months and, based on their performance, they may be offered the post of Programme or Research Associate at CPD.

An allowance of Taka 15,000 per month will be offered to the Intern.

Application Procedure

Qualified candidates should apply with a copy of their resumé and a recent photograph at career@cpd.org.bd

Those who have applied in the last one year in any research position at CPD need not apply.

Shortlisted candidates for the above position will be duly informed for written test, viva-voce and computer literacy test. CPD is an equal opportunity employer and adheres to safeguarding policy.
